Just a Modest Citizen.

New York, Nov. 13.—The most inconspicuous citizen just now is the gentleman who only six days ago was summoned to the highest place of honor in the nation. Since the election, which resulted triumphantly in his favor, Mr. Cleveland has vanished from public view. With the exception of the few words addressed to the throng in front of his house in the small hours of Wednesday morning no utterance of public import has fallen from the President-elect. He has remained in the privacy of his home, closeted with his son, and absorbed in the gigantic task of attending to the mass of correspondence which reaches him daily.

An Interesting Question.

Atlanta, Ga., November 13.—The legality of the installation into office of the governor and State house officers, the election of the State court judges and the bills passed by the present legislature have been called into serious question.

Several amendments to the constitution were voted on in the October election one of which changed the sessions of the legislature from biennial to annual. Another fixed the length of the session. The amendment changing the session from biennial to annual did not specify any date of opening, but the change was made in the body of the bill and not in the caption, nor was it ever voted upon. It thus transpires that the legislature was called to order illegally. Attention has been called to it and a case of some kind will be made. The matter presents a very interesting situation and is being discussed with much interest by the lawyers of the State.

To the representatives of the press Mr. Cleveland has denied himself absolutely, and all such inquiries have been met at the door with the stereotyped statement: "Mr. Cleveland has nothing today."

To a few intimate personal and political friends only has he been visible. Among them were ex-Secretary Whitney, Senator Gorman, Congressman Little and Richard Watson Gilder. It was at first rumored that Mr. Cleveland was engaged in the preparation of a statement which he would make public, but to-day this was denied by Private Secretary O'Brien, who said: "I don't think Mr. Cleveland will be heard from until March."

On Saturday afternoon Mr. Cleveland stirred abroad for the first time and took a short drive through Central Park, returning in time for dinner, after which he retired to his study.

According to Figure, a Chicago literary publication, an only feature of the World's Fair which, up to date has miscarried, is the one which provided for the selling of the souvenir joins at twice their face value. "It is a fact," says the editor, "that up to date—and it is now nearly time for the first installment to come from the mint—not more than 2 per cent of the issue has been subscribed for, and it is doubtful if there will be enough subscriptions received to bring the total up to 5 per cent of the issue. Of course we are not surprised at this, and we only regret that the attempt was made to raise money in that way. But, then, the mistakes have been so few and far between, that we can easily overlook one occasionally."
